HISTORY EDUCATION IN CHALLENGING TIMES: MEETING 'THE OTHER' ACROSS TIME AND SPACE

Daniel O'Connell, The Liberator

Responding to the current multiple crises of climate change, global conflict, mass migration and rising nationalism the HEIRNET 2017 conference will explore how History Education can meet these challenges, providing space for research-based examinations of practice and of historical learning and for the critical discourse on policy, curriculum and the politics of History Education

Full information about the conference is on www.heirnet2017.com

CONFERENCE THEMES AND TOPICS

Given Ireland's recent history of conflict and the ongoing focus on multiple narratives, contested histories and reconciliation, Dublin provides an ideal location for addressing the conference's themes and topics, see, www.heirnet2017.com

1. History Education in the Age of Globalisation and Issues of Citizenship and Identity
2. History across the Curriculum
3. History Around Us: Community, Heritage, the Environment and Issues of Identity
4. Thinking Historically and Cognition
5. Assessment - its nature, purpose and role
6. Statutory Curriculum Documents, National Curricula and National Examinations and Testing
7. Professional Knowledge - The History Teacher's Craft
8. The History of History Education
9. Research & Evidence Based History Education
10. Practitioner-Research: The Integration Of Theory And Practice Papers and Workshops

Each theme has from 5 -13 topics, for these consult either the conference circular or the conference website, www.heirnet2017.com

DELEGATES' OWN THEMES OR TOPICS

If a group of delegates wishes to present a session on a theme or topic of its own choice, see www.heirnet2017.com for what this involves.

CONFERENCE PROGRAMME: PROPOSALS AND ABSTRACTS

Complete and submit a proposal and abstract submission form, see www.heirnet2017.com.
