

Call for Registration

"Mediterranean Dialogues: Teaching History beyond our Horizons"

25th EUROCLIO Annual Conference &
Professional Development and Training Course

EUROCLIO is proud and happy to announce the official call for registration for our 25th Annual Conference & Professional Development and Training Course "Mediterranean Dialogues: Teaching History beyond our Horizons". The conference is hosted and co-organised by EUROCLIO's co-founding member organisation from France, the Association des Professeurs d'Histoire et de Géographie (APHG). The conference will take place in Marseille, France's door to the Mediterranean horizon, from 21 to 26 April 2018.

REGISTER NOW

What is the Annual Conference all about?

The EUROCLIO Annual Conference is a unique professional development course which has been addressing these learning outcomes for over two decades. The conference is attended by history, geography, heritage, and citizenship educators and education professionals from France, Europe, the Mediterranean, and the world. Learn more

"A great conference with lots of content that can be put into practice in the classroom. Very good contacts for future networking in history education and research." - Participant 2016 Annual Conference

Key themes

A common heritage

The conference will address topics such as cultural exchanges and the emergence of Mediterranean civilisations. Can one speak of a shared, African, Asian, and European past in the Mediterranean? From a European perspective; where does the Mediterranean end, and Europe begin?

War and peace in the Euro-Mediterranean region

The year 2018 marks the centenary of the end of the First World War. The conference will address the history of conflicts and wars in the Mediterranean, focusing specifically on the First World War. Throughout its history, armies have moved across the region, and borders have shifted. The effects of these changes are still relevant to the Euro-Mediterranean region today.

People on the move

Migration between all sides of the Mediterranean has shaped the region into what it is today. Undeniably, migration has been a crucial part of its history. "Mediterranean Dialogues" will explore questions of power in the context of migration, and ask how economic imbalance and European Union border policies affect the Mediterranean as an open, shared space.

What can I expect?

"Mediterranean Dialogues" promotes educational approaches such as dealing with diversity, critical thinking, and teaching sensitive and controversial issues. The underlying approaches are cutting across all programme elements, and mainly manifest themselves in workshops and other participant-led parts of the programme.

The full conference fee of 585 euros per person will cover full participation in active workshops, panel discussions, key-note speeches, on-site learning, cultural programme, as well as coffee breaks, lunches, and dinners.

For more information on the Annual Conference, including the programme and concept note, please have a look at our event page. Deadline for registrations is 31 January 2018!

Supported by

Mucem  Musées de Marseille
Musée d'Histoire

Not able to join us? Already registered? Invite a colleague!

Please feel free to pass this message on to any contacts you feel may be interested in participating in this event.

Don't hesitate to get in touch with our conference team in case you have any questions.

Jaco Stoop, Network Coordinator (jaco@euroclio.eu)

Larissa Wiegelmann, Trainee (larissa@euroclio.eu)

Rivka Otten, Trainee (rivka@euroclio.eu)